

Jason A. Kuller Vice President and Co-Owner Signs By Tomorrow – Chesapeake

Home and family: Chesapeake; wife, Lacy; dogs, Kalyx and Deeogee.

Education: Attended Blue Ridge Community College and Thomas Nelson Community College.

Volunteer activities: Chamber of Commerce Ambassador, Chesapeake Humane Society, Achievable Dream, Tastefully Yours.

How do you balance your time? I believe that personal time is essential to sanity and productivity. I give myself downtime away from everything to stay sane and focused, although sometimes it is more of a juggle than a balance.

How do you choose volunteer activities? I chose these organizations based on the needs of the group as well as my interests and areas where Signs By Tomorrow and myself can make the most impact.

Advice for young people in the workforce: Use youth to your advantage. I'm sure some see young people in the professional world and are skeptical at first impression. Use this opportunity to blow them away by being exceptional with service and follow-through.

Proudest accomplishment: I think starting a business while gutting a house and living in a pop-up camper with my wife and dog and still finding time to achieve one of my personal goals of having my art displayed in public is very gratifying.

Professional goal in the next five years: I plan to continue to grow Signs By Tomorrow – Chesapeake and make us the sign company for sign solutions in South Hampton Roads.

Biggest factor in your success: Youth, exuberance, professionalism, punctuality, follow-through and support from my wife and family, who are involved in our locations in Newport News and Chesapeake.

If you could change one thing about Hampton Roads: The ocean would lead right up to gorgeous mountains.

Dream dinner party guest list: Thomas Jefferson, Henry David Thoreau, Jerry Garcia, Jim Morrison, David Grisman, Ani DiFranco, Joni Mitchell, Jeff Austin, Barack Obama, Sam Calagione, Charlie Papazian, Van Gogh, M.C. Escher, Charles Darwin, Edward Einstein, all my best friends, family and my wife.

In your downtime: What is downtime? Just kidding. I enjoy many hobbies, including brewing beer, playing the mandolin, painting, camping and seeing live music.

What gets under your skin? I can't stand being late or others who are late. And people who don't know how to use their turn signals but can text-message while driving.
